Our Position.
The present aspect of the Democratic party, split in their ranks, and presenting to the American people the unparalleled fact in the history of having two candidates for the Presidency, is painful to every friend of the old organization. But there is no time like this when clouds of adversity hang thickly over us, so fitting for us firmly, decidedly and unflinchingly to stand forth in the support and defense of that which we deem to be right. Friendship and devotion are but mockery and hypocrisy if they do not shine the brighter when the hour of need arrives. If there is a principle, it is worth fighting for, and the more determined and steady that contest is made, the greater proportion is its virtue developed.

Now believing, we this week hoist the names of STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, of Illinois, and HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON, of Georgia, as our candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency of the United States, having been, in our opinion, nominated by the regularly organized National Convention of the Democratic party. Our devotion is to the party and not the man.

In taking this position, we are actuated by a conscientious conviction, and a sense of honor, which we hold to be sacred. To violate these would be to subject us to the scorn and loathing of every honorable man, even though his convictions of political duty were different from our own. And in the course of this canvass, we confidently expect demonstration to every candid mind that we are right. We expect clearly to prove that the position assigned us by the District Convention, held at Harrisonburg on the 20th of April last, is that upon which our ticket stands, and which this District has endorsed—not only this, but the position the State herself assigned through the election of a majority of her delegates to Charleston—the position, in fact, upon which the Democratic party of the United States stands by virtue of solemn and honorable compact.

In discussing the questions which legitimately present themselves in this canvass, we intend to be governed by a spirit of candor and fair-dealing, which is the natural offspring of a conviction of right. We shall not avail the opinions of those of the Democratic party who may differ with us, nor shall we attempt to misrepresent the views of those who do not differ with us. We will write our honest convictions, deduced from fair and correct facts in concrete and becoming terms, thus endeavoring to perpetuate the kindly feelings which have existed between party friends with whom we have stood shoulder to shoulder heretofore in crossing swords with a common enemy. A more painful and severe task was never imposed by a sense of duty, but we shall march to the work with a firm and steady step.

Having thus indicated the line of policy we shall pursue, it only remains for us in this connection, to tender most cheerfully to those of our Democratic friends who may differ with us the free use of the columns of the Vindicator for fair and legitimate discussion.

We have no objection to the Democratic party having a hearing, and publishing a Democratic paper, we will cordially yield it as a medium through which those who desire to address the public mind, may do so. We ask the same tolerance for our convictions and views that we would ask others, and when the battle is fought and the victory won, we will yield as readily and as graciously to the will of the majority as any other man.

Ladies' Fair.
The ladies of the M. E. Church in this place, are holding a Fair on Thursday evening next at the Union Hall, and will also have prepared a Supper on the occasion. The proceeds to be applied to the completion of the church of that denomination, now languishing for want of funds. It is to be hoped that every one who feels an interest in so praiseworthy an object will attend and partake freely of the collections.

To Our City Fathers.
Upon the subject of the town's annual good and plenty an indispensable want, just turn your attention to the report of the pumpkins in the market. It is not right that so great a public convenience should be neglected.

The absence of the editor since the Baltimore Convention, will publish a few days of the present issue, in the reason why no other articles of political character have been made this week, and therefore in our columns.

The Annual Fair Association will have a torch-light procession on Saturday night, from the Union Hall to the depot.

Tolerance has reached us that the more is being industriously circulated through some portions of the county to the effect that the editor of the Vindicator, who was a delegate to the Baltimore and Charleston Conventions, has been elected to the position of an officer of the Democratic party of the election of Judge Douglas to the Presidency, who promises to be the mover that influenced his vote in Convention for that gentleman. This rumor we also occasion to disprove, and to state that the editor of the Vindicator is not an officer of the party, and is not an officer of the party, and is not an officer of the party.

So far from desiring office, the writer assigned a literary position under the present administration, and positively declined to accept another tendered him. He has no ambition in that direction, and no allurement of office or reward can ever be operated upon his political action. Any man who insinuates to the contrary is a falsifier of the truth.

We have been actuated in this matter by honorable motives, something probably these gentlemen cannot appreciate, and intend to follow the dictates of our judgment without fear, favor or affection. The threats which likewise have gotten currency, that if we supported Douglas certain persons would withdraw their patronage from the Vindicator, will have not one particle of influence upon our action. Of course, we want all the subscribers we can fairly procure. But if they have to be gotten, and retained by a sacrifice of our independence and truthful convictions, we do not desire them. A spirit either of political or religious intolerance never injured any one. On the contrary, the opposite effect to the designed is generally the result.

"Many Friends."
We publish elsewhere today an article signed "Many Friends," addressed "To the Democracy of Augusta and Highland." We do this most cheerfully, not only in respect to the intelligent Democrat who is its author, but as a simple act of justice to those who think with him. Intending to ask nothing but fair play and an honorable contest, it will afford us pleasure at any time to extend alike courtesy to those who wish to support either appeals to the Democracy, or communications more controversial in their character. We will not at this time enter into a discussion of the propositions suggested as the reason for the address of "Many Friends," but certainly there are many convincing facts and powerful arguments to be brought up in refutation of some of the ideas advanced in the remarks quoted from Mr. Breckinridge; and the rather singular situation of this ticket by "twenty-three out of the thirty delegates sent by the Virginia Democracy to Baltimore," is suggestive of accuracy, the unfolding of which will throw new light upon the issues which have resulted in presenting the Democracy of Virginia a divided power in the present convention.

The object of the communication of "Many Friends" is evidently so fair and just, as indicated in the closing lines, that we most heartily respond to it, for if there are any whose decisions are as yet suspended, the facts, we are sure, when presented, will be proof-convincing that Douglas and Johnson, and not Breckinridge and Lane, are the regular nominees of the regularly constituted Democratic National Convention.

A Suggestion.
In the present distracted and divided condition of the Democratic party, any plan, it seems to us, which can so harmonize its elements as to concentrate them to the result, ought, as a matter of State pride and Democratic devotion, to be adopted. The Address and Sentiment, in that spirit of conciliation and concession which we mark its counsels, has suggested the principle of the true solution of the difficulty in the State. The Rockingham Register has adopted it, as have other papers. We, ourselves, receive the principle of a single Electoral Ticket, with the understanding that if Douglas receives more Electoral votes outside of Virginia than Breckinridge, the vote of Virginia be cast for him, and if Breckinridge receives more Electoral votes outside of Virginia than Douglas, then the vote be cast for him. This would secure the Electoral vote of Virginia for a Democratic candidate for the Presidency. This proposition it seems to us contains a simple solution of all the difficulties which present themselves in Virginia, and will enable us, instead of warring against a common enemy, to blow against a common enemy. The destiny of the Virginia Democracy is the same, whether we are divided or united. If we are divided, we are divided; if we are united, we are united. We are now doing, and as to the means to be employed, let us so control our action that it may result in maintaining our Democratic ascendancy.

Population of Staunton.
We inadvertently omitted to state in our last issue that the enumeration of the population of Staunton, as shown by a census report just then completed by United States Deputy Marshal Maj. J. B. Watts, was three thousand seven hundred and seventeen, irrespective of Augusta Female Seminary, Virginia Female Institute, Wesleyan Female Institute, and Staunton Academy. Including these institutions, the population would be upwards of four thousand.

George Seawright, Esq., upon the recommendation of said deputy, had been commissioned to take the census of the northern portion of Augusta county, but declining to qualify, Mr. E. Burke was commissioned and qualified in his stead. And upon the further recommendation of said Deputy, Col. James M. Lilly has been commissioned and qualified to take the census of the southern portion of the county. We hope the people will take a deep interest in facilitating the work.

A grain girl named Mary, belonging to the farm of James M. Lilly, of Staunton, was recently burned to death by her clothes accidentally catching fire.

Absence from town deprived us of the pleasure of attending the recent commencement exercises at the Wesleyan Female Institute at this place. There were many upon the program of the day, and the exercises were of a high order of merit. The Institute is a fine building, and the faculty is of a high order of merit. The students are of a high order of merit, and the exercises were of a high order of merit.

We had the pleasure of witnessing, on Thursday night last, the Commencement Exercises of the "Wesleyan Female Institute," which consisted in reading Compositions, and the performance of vocal and instrumental music by the pupils, and conferring diplomas to the graduates by the Principal. The pupils acquitted themselves in such a manner as to reflect credit upon themselves, and to manifest competency on the part of their several teachers.

Chapman, Misses Bette J. Gibbons, of Rockingham county; Julia A. Jacobs, of Warren county; Mollie B. McCoy, of Staunton; Glendie Ruse, of Loudoun county; and Julia A. Trone, of Buckland, Va. The English Salutatory was read by Miss Julia A. Trone, and the Latin Salutatory by Miss Glendie Ruse.

Conventions, "Justice," by Miss Allie Moore, White Sulphur, Va. "Our place and duties," by Miss Hattie Hardy, Winchester. "Napoleon," by Miss E. Johnson, Harrisonburg. "What we live for," by Miss Kate V. Dameron, Albemarle. "What is society? What are its benefits? What its influence?" by Miss Mattie K. Cooke, Augusta.

Essays, "La vie et ses changements," by Miss Julia A. Jacobs, Warren county, Va. "Woman," by Miss Mollie McCoy, Staunton. A Dialogue, "The folly of devoting too much time to accomplishments," was read by the Misses L. Ruse and B. Persinger.

The Valedictory was delivered by Miss Bette J. Gibbons, of Rockingham. At the departure of the cars the next morning, with emotions of sorrow at separation from their school-mates mingled with the joyful anticipation of soon seeing the "good old folks at home," with tears and smiles, they kissed each other, and uttered that "good old word, good bye."

Virginia Female Institute.
The Commencement exercises at the Wesleyan Female Institute at this place, on Thursday night last, were of a high order of merit. The exercises were of a high order of merit, and the students were of a high order of merit.

We publish elsewhere a list of the names of the young ladies who particularly distinguished themselves during the past session, and regret we have not space for the extended notice of all our fair young friends which they so eminently deserve.

The theme (instrumental and vocal) was exquisite, and did great credit to Messrs. Koster, Ade and Stinger, the accomplished Professors of that Department. The address and essays by the young ladies were written with an easy eloquence of diction which challenged criticism, and were read and delivered in a manner so graceful and touching as to excite the admiration and applause of the large assembly of citizens and strangers who were present during the exercises.

The Salutatory Address in French by Miss Sue Jones, of Botetourt, and the Valedictory, by Miss Taylor, of Norfolk, were especially commended and admired.

The distribution of the diplomas, medals, and prizes was exceedingly interesting—the graceful manner of the fair recipients of these honors excited consistent bursts of applause from the audience.

Fourth of July.
The Fourth of July in Staunton was observed by the closing of our business houses, and the display of our military companies. The exhibition of the military and the inspiring music of Turner's Silver Cornet Band gave life and animation to the recollections of this National Anniversary.

The West Augusta Guards, under Capt. Bayler, and the Staunton Artillery commanded by Lt. T. L. Harman, gave additional evidence of their proficiency in the Soldier's tactics. The day was one of general life and enjoyment, which was none the less heightened by the association with the older companies of the Staunton Blues, under Capt. Lilley, uniformed in blue jacket, white pants and military cap.

The French culminated about five o'clock by a most magnificent exhibition of Capt. John Barleboro, who tossed and tumbled his soldiers about in magnificent disorder, producing various black eyes and skinned noses.

Officers of the Junior Blues.
At a meeting held at the residence of the officers of the "Junior Blues," it was interesting juvenile military company composed of boys between the ages of 10 and 16.

We are pleased to learn from W. K. Hull, of Staunton, that the wheat crop in that county has been a good one, and that the crop of corn is also good.

The harvest has not yet commenced. The corn looks fine, and the grass never better. This is especially gratifying when it is remembered that last year these crops were so sorely visited by frost, which destroyed nearly the entire crop.

Daniel Clarke has been rejected to the United States Senate from New Hampshire.

The above is a portrait of David McCrory, of Na. town, taken on the 31st day of August 1888, about a month before Justice Gentry died. He was afflicted with the cure of Cancer by three physicians, and by Dr. Newton of the Eclectic College in Cincinnati, for a period of nearly three months, notwithstanding which, his lip, nose, and a portion of his left cheek were entirely eaten away. He had given up all hope, when he heard of the "Blood-Scrubber," and was induced to try it.
