ARMEN MECHANAN.
We are glad to freer from James Ba-chanan. We have once in a while heard that he was criting a book in vindication of his life- bit as yet. the prospect in has not appeared before the public. Know-ing her said; his administration needs to be commended to the popular judgment, or have looked with interest for the fri-tion of the prossise: but it comes not Again we heard of him in a controversy with Gen. Scott, in which neither did him-with growth or critic. Scott which here we have been seen to be a second or controversy with Gen. Scott, in which neither did him-with growth or critic. Scott which here is a second with growth or critic. Scott which here is a second or con-

nion of the pression; but it comes not. Again we heard of him in a controversy, with Gen. Scott, in which neither dichins—if uncommon credit. Scott's fidelity was clouded by his inordinate egotism, and Buchanan's apecial pleading but illy conceased his period of great peril. At another time we heard that we was honored with a notice not to attend the funeral of a once devoted friend—Maj. Gen. Reynolds, who fell a marryr to the Republic Mr. Buchanan endeavored vainly to destroy; but at last we hear from him by a letter to the Tribure.

The New York Evening Post in a recent article on the origin of the rebellion, charged that the National Convention of 1895, of which Mr. Buchanan was the nominer for the Previdency, selected the sage of Wheatland as its candidate with the distinct pledge given by his Northera friends, through Judge Black of this State, that the right to secression chault be recepted that the National convention of the public and height given by his Acceptance by his administration in the event of a flequibil can be in famous pledge, more did any other man. Mr. Bachanan is right for ouce in his life in sating that Judge Jereminh S. Blopk made no such speech, but Col. Samuel [W. Black, or Pittoburg, did make a speech that would read most oddly just now. We do not think that he meant to give any sachpielege. He imagined that the damper of disminon was not haventhe and eached his conversion with his life's blood when the treason he was warming into life in Circinanti confronted him and his country fag in the left. The error of the Pod in attributing the formal pledge to Judge Black.

cimant controuted him and his country's fing in the field. The error of the Post in attributing the formal piecy to Judge Black, gives Mr. Buchanan an opportunity to rush into the public journals to get in a feelbe word in defence of his administration, but in his base to seize a straw in the great current of public opinion that is sweeping him to infamy, he evades the material point, the essence of the charge made against him. We wish that Mr. Buchanan had been as candid as he is arbent in defining his relations with the leading traitors while he administered the government. We should be glad to know whether, in his correspondence with Mason. Slidell and tothers whether, in his correspondence with Mason. Slidell and tothers whether, in his correspondence with Mason. Slidell and tothers whether, in his correspondence with Mason. Slidell and tothers whether, in his correspondence with Mason. Slidell and tothers whether in Executive as Mr. Bachanan. he did not before his election of a Republican President, or a sectional President is he would term it, would entirely justify secosion. He knew the sentiments of the Cincinnati Convention, and we entered Mr. Buchanan to say whether his friends in that convention did not there, and thereafter in the conject declare that the election of Mr. Froment would not only result in secosion, but would warrant secosion and make it justifiable in history? Bid not Mr. Bachanan himself so say to the South in his condential correspondence? We affirm that he did that be taught them then the remedy of secosion, and was compelled by the cruel task-mascters who gave him the Presidency; to violate his own faith to Col. Forney and stain himself with the blacked ingratitude, solely because the traitors who ware supporting him demanded it? They forsed Col. Forney as an able-and independent journalist, and because he would not serve the interests of treason and he was stricken down at their believ, when Mr. Buchanan was yet green with the garlands of his victory.

But the record of his calai

sied the power of the Nation to derhad its own life. That it does not now stain the record of his administration is due to other more faithful than himself. He would have anreadered everything to treason—the country and the hay cause would have periabed by his hand but for the bolder and better hearts which made him totter from his crowning peridy to the semblance of patriotism. Only when he saw that he would be deserted by every loyal friend and left to the pitilies secon of a betrayed people, did he take herd to the warning voice of the faithful members of his cabinet. The answer tiske was finally made to the relei commissioners own anothing to Mr. Buchanan but his forced, reluctant sanction, and yet it is to that document he points in his controversy with free-ceral Scott as a triumphant vindication of his dielelity. Who wrote it? We heg Mr. Buchanan to save, his reputation—that is gone beyond redemption. A loyal people who have sacrificed their bload and treasure unsparingly to rescue the Nation from the treason that he made powerful, will never learn to tespect him while living or to rever his memory when he shall have passed away. But let him be trustful to history, and not attempt to shield his one memory by robbing others of their just hours.
