Mr. Burlad, stage proprietor, who has just arrived from Springfield, which place he left on Monday at moon, farnishes the following idens:

General Lyes with his forces had fallen beak on Springfield, having reached there on Monday storating, and was preparing for a vigorous defence. The Rebels were advancing by four different road, and their advance was ascertained to be from ten to fifteen miles distant.

General Lyon had called on 2500 of the Home Guards from the country around Springfield.

It was expected that the commy would make an immediate estant, from the fact that their Own mineeriest Department was in a minerable wondition, they being obliged bedeemed on froud contributions for immorary counties. The fact had note up in most of the control of the carts, and other vehicles, heavily loaded with arms for the regiments, provisions for the army, huge shells on their way to be filled, and all the requisites of war. Splendid parks of rifled cannon, from ten to thirty-two pounders, ornament the lawns, huge guns lie about on the wharf and in the shop ready to be mounted, while the tattoo of hammers and buzz of saws bear evidence to the life within it of the manufactories of army-cheste and the other various appurtenances of the batteries Rifled and round shells, graps, cannister and shrapnel, Minie and pistol balls, in immense quantities, roll out ready for their mission of death, under the manipulations of many hands, and bright guns go up daily upon their wheels and turn their dark mouths towards the blue hills of Virginia, while a constant tide of muskets, rifles and bayonets pours in and out of the spacious armories. The regulars who formerly guarded the entrances have teen assigned other duties, and the responsible position is now filled by Company A, Captain Mofett, of the 26th Pennsylvania regiment. — Washington, Star.

Danger of Balar.

We have toon favored with many very sage disquisitions lately, against burrying up the war, and which al-though a litt's lose in making their appearance, may still exert a wholesome influence in a quarter where a little sound discretion seems very much needed. We certainly can feel no desire to see the Administration begin again before it is ready, but, still, we would venture to suggest that it might be well to keep in view that there is danger menacing us from a quarter not to be despised unless this war is brought to a speedy termination.

The English and French governments are carping at our blockade in no very amiable terms, and are only watering for the shadow of an excuse to dewhenever an opportunity offers. This is much be terms, and are only watching in no way to restore union and harfor the shadow of an excuse to de mony to the ranks of the party. We know that the great body of the Douge salready filed their complaints at Washlas Democrats, who have been led ington that our blockade is not effective active by the political tricksters, are ive and cannot much longer be recognose sound, and know but one party and will stand by it and its principles. Our Government, it cannot be supposed, will, for the special active most supposed, will, for the special active most supposed, will, for the special active most supposed, will active the process. raise the blockade at their more request. Now that it has been estab-lished by the authority of Lincoln our and heartily despise him and his ilk self-respect as a nation would demand who have so meanly betrayed the party that it be kept up, during the war, no while professing to uphold it. An Immense Wagon Load Theft.

The Washington correspondence of the New York Times savs :

The Washington correspondence of the New York Times says:

"I have heard of a wagon contract which it is to be hoped will be overhauled by Van Wyck's committee. I understaud that a manufacturer in Brosklyn, N. Y. ik, sent an agenthere some time ago with a proposition to sell several hundred wagons to the Government. He was introluced by a Senator to a proper officer in the War Department, from whom he learned that the Government had no need of wagons—that it would rely on steamboats and railroads, and thus dispense with the old fashioned modes of transportation. The poor fellow went home with a flex in his ear, and the manufacturer made up his mind to the sad conclusion that he had on hand a quantity of wares which would have to wait for a market until the revival of business after the termination of the war. But he was soon aroused from his melancholy mood by the arrival of contractors for the War Department, from Washington, who were ready to purchase all his wagons and a good many more than he could furnish. I understand that these lucky favorites received from the Government thirty dollars per wagon more than the man- utacturers offered to sell them for.—

A Million of Men.

A Millies of mem.

By some process of shrew! engineering, two volunteer bills instead of one have been passed by Congress. By each one of them the President is authorised to accept the services of 500,000 men for the war.—
One of the bills is supplemental to the other; and after referring to it, and to the forces it provides, gives the President power to call out, in addition to the troops "now authorised by law," 500,000 men. Thus the President has power to call into the field a million of men. A mamber of the Cabinet remarked to-day that it was much to be hoped that there would be noteened to be president for in the field a million of men. A mamber of the Cabinet remarked to-day that it was much to be hoped that there would be noteened to be passed by the field more than the half of a million of men provided for in the first bill; but that if it proved otherwise, if the war should prove a long one, the Administration would not hereistate to call out the other half million, and even in the other half million, and even to ask fer more if it should be necessary.
