The last steamers from Burope bring the news of the overthrow of the Derby Administration, and the accessionagain to power of the venerable Lord Falmerston.

Lord Granvillo was first summoned the Queen, but was unable to form a ministry. Palmerston was then "sent for," who immediately succeeded in the formation of an administration. The avowed prodlection of the Berby Ministry for Austria, coupled with the inverse aminosity of the English people jowards France, made the specest attitude of neutrality on the part of 1856 to build as a mational party. The proper special composition of the grand experiment of Berly and Special Convention on the floor as the most discovered the special proper in the South is seen and the prevailed opposition on the floor as the most discovered the special proper in the South is seen and the prevailed opposition on the floor as the most discovered the seen all sorts of fights, with all sorts of people, but that he did not wish to loss whatever of character he might the side of the Atlantic, at least, that the this side of the Atlantic, at least, that the neutrality of that nation was a mask to be thrown side as soon as an opportunity at thrown side as soon as an opportunity at thrown side as soon as an opportunity at the forded itself. But the reinstatement of lord Palmerston in power, with his known friendship for Napoleon and hostility to Austria, and safords reasonable ground to bepe, that the neutrality of England will be maintained which is not recommendation.
