GEN. BORERT E. LEZ. Commander-in-Chief of the rebel forces, surrendered his entire army of Northern Virginia to Geo. Grant on Sunday last, and the great Chief-tain of the Republic is therefore without a foe to confront him. Thus after ten days of forced marches and heroisus un-exampled in the history of warfare, the Juny of the Potomore has granufled with exampled in the history of warfare, the Army of the Potomac has grappled with and utterly destroyed the very life-foun-tain of treason, and the chief heroes of of crime have fallen in an ignoble cause, or are captives to our triumphant commanders.

or are captives to our trumphant commun-ders.

THES HAS PEACE BEEN FAIRLY WOS!
The Nation may now realise its highest hopes—re-union, fraternal harmony, and the supremacy, in all sections, of an un-yielding devotion to our resured Nation-ality. In thus crowning Peace and Union over the crimonous sacritices of appalling war, we would leave vengennee to lim who has declared it "is MINE," and make the chastened and recoverated. Remubile the chastened and regenerated. Republic as magnanimous and ennobling in Peace, as it has been terrible and invincible in War!

HOW SHALL WE ATTAIN PEACE?

HOW SHALL WE ATTAIN PRACE?

The great repressive power of the rebellion is now broken, and for the first time since the despottion of treason was imaginated in 1881, the Southern people can act upon their own convictions without fear of the remorseless vengeance that hitherto has pursuest all who did not bow without inquiry or complaint to the archeon-spirators. This repressive power was the reletarmy. While it was unshattered, there was no hope of individual or state action to restore the lawful authority of the government in the revolved States. The insurgent leaders, who must stand before an enlightened Christian world and a just God as responsible for the wide-parad desolution, the appaling hereave hereal, and the countless sacrifices of this war, were actained during the whole struggle by thearmics of crime. They had ever at hand the power to enforce their despetic laws relentbessly, and they hid not heistate to crush out dispassionate action at every cost. They could thereby enforce their mercless conscription; gather their wholesale impressments; close every accuse against desertions, and forbid all discussion booking to peace by re-union.

But this sole sustaining power of Davis

But this sole sustaining power of Davis is now broken. Hood's army has ceased to exist; Johnston's is powerless to give battle to Sherman, and must manouver for his own safety, while his ranks will be to exist; Johnston's is powerless to give buttle to Sherman, and must manouver for his own safety, while his ranks will be daily lessened by hapless doesters, and Lee's army—hitherto the main reliance of the marpation of Davis, has at last been surrendered. It can never again be organized. The robel government wielded with such tireless energy and constitute of the power that has been similared with moch tireless energy and constitute of the power that has been similared with moch tireless energy and constitute of the power that has been statuted to the winds and its potency uttryl destroyed. It may wander through the South for a few months but it will command neither respect nor obedience. In short, the whole repressive, controlling power of treason is hopelessly broken, and now the Southein people can with safety act for themselves, for their posterity and for their common country, in accepting, and austaining, the supermacy of the general government.

How shall they be met; How shall help be invited to the great work of restoring the authority of the Republic? Shall help be invited to the great work of restoring the authority of the Republic? Shall release to the consideration of the loyal press and states in the fact to save our proud inheritance? The time has come when these grave queetions must be determined, and we are gratified to notice the almost universal expressions of the loyal press and statesmen of the North in favor of the most generous policy on the part of the Government that is consistent with its honor and safety.

We think the present a fitting time to recall the golden yords of Hon. Edward Everett, in his great oration delivered in the fall of 1883, over the graves of our nartys on the memorable field of Gettysburg. He said.

"The people of loyal America will never the to the first own and a feature on their Government, the hard bearted me whose the other own of the condition of the part of the fourth of the rest.

states, that merely to accept the situation, to use the phrase of the eithers of Scaunch, will be to take Mr. Lincolant he word.

The Trans, thought opposed to making advances while the rebellion was formidiable, is now emphatic in favor of that policy. From that journal of Wednesday we quote as follows:

"Tho the question of pacification is at successful to the control of the policy of the pledge of good will, and, we believe would be the visible news in effect a copposal least.

Now that Lee and his army have faded from existence as a military power, we hope to hear that Johnston will imitate his chief and surrender to Sherman. He cannot hope either to fight to retreat succeedingly with Grant. Sherman, Schoffeld and Stoneman surrounding him, and we believe that he will not servifie the lives of his men in hopeless conflict.

Gen. Stoneman has worded North Cardina, at a point North of Johnston and is mow doubless co-spectating with Sherman, Gen. Thomas is at some point in Western Virginia on his way to Lynching, and Gen. Hancock with his entire force of Infanty; and cavary moved from Winchester toward the same point on the lit int. Before the chose of the present week our forces will certainly occupt Lynchisty gand Rabeigh.

We have not as yet had any word of the wherealmants of Jeff. Davis, since he left Bichmond. He cannot live in the Santh, and we expect to hear that he bastinted for Texas, to take dinal refige in Mexico, from which place Davis and Maximilion will find it convenient to leave together before the binds of another spring shall claim their meny songs.
