POETRY. Old King Cotton. BT 080300, 2. HORRS.

d Cotton is king, boys—she! With his locks so floory and white He shifes among kings like a start And his in the sceptre of right, Boys, of right, And his in the sceptre of right.

Old Oction, the king, has no core. No queen and no helv to his threas No courtiers, his triumphs to share, He rules his dominions alone.

Old Cotton the merry old by !-Like smoke from the pipe to his mohis years gilde away in their joy,
At home in the warm suriny south,
Borsa the south,
At home in the warm sanny south;

Then here's to old Ootton, the king! His true lays! subjects are we; His true loyal anbjects are we;

We'll langh and we'll qual and we'll aing,
A jolly old fellow in he,
Boys, is he,
A jolly old fellow us he!
